Our School

Established in 1949, National Lo-Tung Commercial Vocational High School has been dedicated to vocational education for over 70 years. During the past seven decades, our camp site has been transferred three times, and the official name of our school has also been changed three times. We started from a humble beginning and threaded along a beaten track. Over the years, faculty members are all devoted to teaching and training, and all the efforts have won the school great reputation and prestige in Yilan County.

Mission and Vision

LTCVHS offers elective courses that encourage students with diverse backgrounds to learn together. Such interdisciplinary learning echoes the vision of the new curriculum. The mission and vision of our school is to equip students with the ability they need for the changing world. We facilitate students' learning with new-style teaching as well as creativity. We cultivate humanistic perspectives of students and introduce them to global viewpoints. Hopefully, students are able to use their adaptive skills to solve problems they may face in the future.
